

SUBOXONE MYTHS AND REALITIES

Myth One: You are not really in recovery if you use Suboxone.

Reality: Addiction is increasingly viewed as a medical condition. Suboxone is a medication used to treat opioid use disorder.

Myth Two: People frequently abuse and overdose on Suboxone.

Reality: Abuse is not taking Suboxone as prescribed. Suboxone was designed to have a ceiling effect that stops an individual from overdosing. People overdose when mixing sedatives with Suboxone.

Myth Three: Suboxone should only be taken for a short period of time.

Reality: There is no evidence that concludes that Suboxone should be used for a short period. Every person works with their provider and is prescribed as needed.

ON THE ROAD OF RECOVERY

WHAT ARE MAT SERVICES?

MAT is a voluntary Medication Assisted Treatment program that uses Suboxone as a supporting tool to help individuals overcome opioid use disorder.

WHAT IS SUBOXONE?

Suboxone is a prescription medication containing Buprenorphine and Naloxone that bind to the opioid receptors in the brain. Buprenorphine is a weak opioid that treats withdrawal symptoms and curbs cravings. Naloxone is an opioid blocker and brings on withdrawal if people abuse Suboxone. Additionally, prescribed Vivitrol and Naltrexone may be a part of your care plan.
